Hawthorne's Short Stories

Coordinator: Ian Steller

Nathaniel Hawthorne was an early master of the short story form. Cautionary, shadowy, eccentric and surreal, Hawthorne's fiction transmits an avant-garde Romanticism consistent with the sentimentality of a Salem-born Yankee from the early 19th century. It is a style preoccupied with moral purity, psychological complexity, regional history, Puritanism, and the inherent fallibility of humankind. In the words of one contemporary publisher, "Of the American writers destined to live, [Hawthorne] is the most original, the one least indebted to foreign models or literary precedents of any kind." This course will focus on the most powerful and enduring of Hawthorne's short stories – pieces like Rappaccini's Daughter, Young Goodman Brown, The Birthmark, and others. Each week, we will read two selected tales, meeting as a group to discuss and reflect on them. The use of technology will be respectfully discouraged, and a close, comparative, and thoughtful reading of the text will be our guiding principle. So, if the prospect of a lively eight-week foray into one of New England's most hallowed writers sounds appealing to you, then enroll in this course, and, in the words of its namesake, be "ever afterwards touched, and so transfigured."

Format: We will read from Newton Arvin's edited anthology of Hawthorne's short stories; readings will be assigned by the coordinator at the behest of public opinion. Participants are encouraged to discuss and/or present on specific interests of theirs that may be germane to the reading.

Resources/Expenses: Hawthorne's Short Stories (Vintage Classics) (ISBN: 9780307741219) is available in paperback from Amazon for $4.00 and up used.

Coordinator: Ian Steller is a lifelong Providence resident. He now practices carpentry after studying Philosophy and English as an undergraduate. He is in his mid-twenties and this is his second LLC course.

Cover photograph, "SLAVA UKRAINI," was taken by LLC member Margaret Lawrence in our "iPhonography" class last fall. Margaret has been a member of LLC since 2018.

Current Decisions

Coordinators: Dennis Flavin, Dave Hansen

Join our annual examination of the important domestic issues, programs, policies, and political trends facing our nation in 2022. International issues are covered in the winter course Great Decisions. As always there is never a lack of interesting, complicated and controversial topics to analyze and discuss. This year, as we face the impending 2022 midterm elections, is no exception. In addition to a reexamination of traditional issues, such as healthcare, immigration, and Supreme Court decisions we hope to address broader and overriding issues such as the relevance of traditional political parties, the undermining of the Constitution and the politicization of our court system. Don't forget to bring your polling expertise when we forecast crucial November election results.

Format: This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information). Individual or team presentations are encouraged.

Resources/Expenses: There are no assigned texts or readings although presenters may suggest materials for class members to review on their chosen topic. There are no anticipated expenses.

Coordinators: Dave Hansen and Dennis Flavin have coordinated this course and Great Decisions for several years. They strongly support the collaborative learning style with open animated discussion and debate.

The Director's Chair: From Short Story into Film

Coordinators: Linda Shamoan, Karen Stein

You are a film director! You love short stories, too. So, you're considering five popular short stories and the changes you would make in each story's plot, characters, settings, etc., to transform each into a compelling movie. Wait! Uh-oh! Those five stories have been made into films! One-by-one, you view each film and compare the film director's decisions to your own. With each comparison, you find wonderful surprises and serious flubs. Mostly, you marvel at the beauty, techniques, and challenges of film making.

Format: In this six-week class, we'll discuss one story a week and one film a week. Five stories into film. Each story will be sent via email. Each film is available via commercial streaming services, usually $3.99 per film. Participants will be expected to (1) read the weekly story and prepare answers to a set of questions, (2) to view the weekly film and prepare answers to a set of questions, (3) read assigned pages in the textbook. Short presentations will be encouraged. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: The five short stories will be supplied by email. The text about film analysis: TBD.

Coordinators: Linda Shamoan taught writing and rhetoric at URI; Karen Stein taught American literature and Women's Studies at URI. Both are expert at story analysis; they will be learning film analysis along with the class.

Registration opens Monday, May 16 @ 9 AM.

Scrabble Social Club

Coordinators: Catherine Hurst, Sheila Zompa

Scrabble meets every week at the Temple during our four regular semesters. All levels are welcome, and game boards are provided. Players are rotated by the coordinators so that you play with different people every week – typically in groups of three, though sometimes we have a table of four or a table of two. We permit players to use dictionaries during the game; we only ask that you not spend your whole turn poring over the dictionary looking for a better word than the one you already have! You don't need to attend every week, but you do need to register to participate. Please plan to arrive at about 3:00 pm, or a few minutes after. We need the time from 3:00-3:15 to set up the boards and players so that we can start playing right at 3:15. We generally have three to five games in play and there is room for more. Hopefully, you'll become a regular. Cathy will be on hand for documentation and rule clarification. Sheila will create our groups each week and we shall see if Pete will continue to hold onto his distinction as our Scrabble icon. Then join us afterwards, if you wish, for supper at a Providence restaurant. We have a list of nine restaurants that we rotate through – three general menu restaurants, two pizza places, and Greek, Chinese, Indian, and Thai restaurants. There we can relax and unwind in a convivial group.

Coordinators: Cathy Hurst and Sheila Zompa have been coordinating Scrabble for several years, following expert coordination by Bob Goodwin in previous seasons.

Special consideration will be given to Providence Art Club members who may participate with their PAC membership waiving LLC membership and paying only the $25 class fee.

Join us in an enjoyable group Plein air experience in a combined Zoom and outdoor face to face format. Both newcomers as well as the experienced will have an opportunity to spend time exploring their inner artist. The class will include painting (in any medium), pastels, and drawing. If you have never held a paintbrush, you are welcome to give it a try. And if you are a working artist, just creating in nature is an inspiration.

offered in the first hour, followed by an art critique. Each artist enrolled will work outside on their own and will submit their work via email for critique. Four Wednesdays during the semester, the plein air sessions will meet in varied locations and will include a critique, following CDC Covid guidelines. One additional group Zoom class will be available for beginning artists on June 15.

Grateful Dead 101: Introduction to the Music of the Grateful Dead

Coordinator: Bob Trudeau

Did you love the “Dead” back in the day or did you miss that and want to learn about their music now? Join us as we focus on the lyrics of many of their songs and the genres of music the Dead performed, including, among others, folk music, and jazz. We will try to share perspectives on the lyrics and engage in some focused listening in order to appreciate the musicality and skills of the performers. The course will have a minimum amount of information about the band personnel, personalities, and lifestyles, and a maximum focus on the music as the Grateful Dead performed it.

Format: Bob will present information and play the music. Participants will be asked for comments on specific song lyrics and come to class prepared to discuss. Otherwise, class organization is very informal, with the goal of lively discussions and participation.

Resources/Expenses: None.

Coordinator: Bob Trudeau is a retired Professor of Political Science at Providence College. He discovered the Grateful Dead in 1971 and has been listening to their music ever since. He is author of The Grateful Dead's 100 Essential Songs, published in 2018. ### Hot Topics

Coordinator: George Champlin

Do you enjoy talking with others about news of the day, hearing what they think is important, and why? If so, you'll enjoy Hot Topics. You can expect probing and exciting sessions that look at current items in the news. Members of the class take turns selecting a hot topic of the week – one that will stir discussion – and presenting key material to the class. The person presenting the topic gets things rolling with a few questions to stimulate discussion. Don't be surprised if at times the discussions become intense and controversial. Class members should plan to read the Providence Journal and either The New York Times or The Wall Street Journal – or both – along with other news sources they might want to look into. Any medium will do, paper or electronic if the topics are timely, and hot.

Format: Each week one member of the group will choose one article on current hot topics. After briefly presenting these to the group, they will pose the questions and lead the discussion. The coordinator will act as moderator of the session and help ensure that all viewpoints are heard. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Participants will need access to Internet and will share articles drawn from newspapers, journals, magazines, and/or news releases with the group by email. No expenses are anticipated.

Coordinator: George has successfully coordinated this very popular course many times in the past.

Peaky Blinders: Crime, Bolshevism, Politics, Workers' Rights, and the Irish Question in Britain 1919-1922

Coordinator: Catherine Hurst

Peaky Blinders is a six-season BBC/Netflix drama (2013-2022) which, in the tradition of The Godfather, focuses on a crime family over the years. The Shelbys start off as bookies and working-class thugs in Birmingham, England but family leader and World War I hero Thomas Shelby has higher aspirations. In this class we will watch the first two seasons of the TV show (12 episodes) and discuss both the show (plot, script, character development, acting, costumes, sets, cinematography, music, etc.) and the history (1919-1922), looking at such topics as shellshock, Bolshevism, the labor movement and factory strikes (prevalent worldwide in the years after the war), prejudice (the Shelby family has Romani roots), policing, gender roles, and the Irish question.

NOTE: Violence, nudity, profanity, and drug/alcohol use/abuse are prevalent in the show.

Format: You will view two episodes a week at home and come to class prepared to discuss. Each participant will be expected to lead a 45-minute class segment – either on the two episodes themselves or on a facet of history that complements the themes in those episodes.

Resources/Expenses: The TV episodes are available on Netflix (either streaming or DVD). In addition, about a dozen copies of seasons 1 and 2 can be found at various branch libraries in RI. (Check the Ocean State Libraries catalog or your local library.)

Coordinator: Cathy Hurst conducts historical walking tours, and researches and writes biographies for several historical foundations. She has coordinated a number of interdisciplinary courses, including a course on the 1919 Boston Police Strike which touched on many of the same issues found in Peaky Blinders. Coordinator: Linda Guccione

In the 17th century, the epicenter of art in Italy moved from Florence to Rome. The artists/architects Bernini and Borromini ushered in the period referred to as Baroque. This course will explore the Baroque style in Italy. Some of the artists and sites: Bernini, Borromini, Gaulli, Caravaggio, Carracci, Gentileschi, The Salute (Venice), Royal Palace of Caserta, Quatro Fontana (Rome), Vivaldi, Albinoni, Monteverdi, Villa d'Este, baroque architecture in Sicily. Neither artistic skill nor a background in art history is needed, just an interest in the topic.

Resources/Expenses: There is no textbook, but participants may be asked to read PDF documents and/or watch videos specified by the coordinator. Libraries have many books on the topic, plus coordinator can help with research sources. No expenses are anticipated.

Coordinator: Linda Guccione is a docent at the RISD Museum and a long-time independent student of Italian art and architecture. Many years traveling in Italy and two years living in Ferrara have given her extensive experience of Italian art. She recently coordinated courses in Early and Late Renaissance Italian painting.

How We See Race, Through Short Works by Matt Guterl and Trevor Noah

Coordinators: Sidney Okashige, Nini Stoddard

Here's an opportunity to find your own "growing edge" on matters of race. Join us this summer to increase our own metacognition around race – that is, how do we perceive and do we know how we perceive others? Trevor Noah's Born a Crime, a picaresque and hilarious beach-read but insightful coming-of-age memoir, uses a South African lens to perceive how "race" operates. In Seeing Race, Guterl, who may make a guest appearance, explores media and popular culture with a focus on our "sight lines," his metaphor for seeing race differences in our bodies.

Format: Before class begins, participants are asked to read Born a Crime and to sign up to lead discussion of one of the related topics on the syllabus. Short readings from Guterl's book will support each topic. Class members are encouraged to provide discussion questions that stimulate discussion and dialog. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Born a Crime by Trevor Noah and Seeing Race in Modern America by Matthew P. Guterl are available at public libraries, the Brown Book Store, and on Amazon.com for as low as $7.00 total used in paperback. Internet and email access are strongly recommended.

Coordinators: Sidney Okashige co-coordinated her first LLC course on race ten years ago and since then has coordinated numerous courses, including Meditation with Thich Nhat Hanh, short stories, and Digging Deep Into the Titanic. Nini Stoddard now calls Providence home after a childhood overseas and married life in rural northeastern Connecticut. She has enjoyed the camaraderie and the variety of LLC courses since her retirement from Brown University.
