Our Times: From Hemingway to ZZ Packer Coordinator: Linda White

Like the songs we listen to, the stories we read help us define who we are: a generation marked by World War II, the Holocaust, duck-and-cover drills, the civil rights movement, the 1960's assassinations, Vietnam, Watergate, 9/11, climate change and the pandemic. We will read modern and postmodern authors' attempts to make sense of our confusing and contentious times, starting with works by Hemingway, Fitzgerald, and Faulkner, and ending with Tim O'Brien, Reginald McKnight, ZZ Packer, Jhumpa Lahiri, Melanie Rae Thon, and Donald Barthelme.

Format: Class members will choose one story from the class calendar for their class discussion. Session leaders should plan a 15-minute presentation and provide questions for discussion. Suggestions and sample questions are available on the class website. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box below for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Lex Williford and Michael Martone, eds. The Scribner Anthology of Contemporary Short Fiction. 2nd edition, Touchstone Books, 2007. Robert Penn Warren and Albert Erskine, eds. Short Story Masterpieces. New York: Dell Publishing. Any edition. These texts are available on Amazon, used for as little as $2, new for $17 (Williford and Martone) and $9 (Warren and Erskine).

Coordinator: Linda White is a retired professor of English from Stephen Austin State University in Texas, where she directed the writing center for many years. After retiring, she became a speech-language pathologist and worked with preschoolers at West Warwick Public Schools.

We're pleased to offer Zoom courses and in-person courses this semester. COVID vaccination is a mandatory requirement for attending in-person classes. We'll keep current with trends and regulations and may change as needed. Thanks for your understanding!

Zoom is easy and free to class members. If you have not used Zoom, click here for a helpful introduction video.

The Art of Being Fully Human: Talking with People You Come Across in Your Travels

Coordinators: Sidney Okashige, Phil Weinstein

Talking with the strangers we encounter in everyday life requires overcoming shyness, being open to getting to know someone, and allowing them to know something about you. This experience can occur anywhere and at any time. This course is designed to help us open ourselves to others by just being friendly! The professor Leonardo Buscaglia (aka Dr. Love) taught at USC before his death in 1998. He told a story about encountering a student one early morning on the campus and said: "Good morning." The student answered: "Do I know you?" And Leo said: "No, but wouldn't it be nice!" We will listen to YouTube talks by Leo and read his book, Love, What Life is All About. We will also include the wisdom and teachings of two Irish poets/philosophers: David Whyte and John O'Donohue.

Format: Participants will be encouraged, but not required, to talk with strangers, and then to discuss the emotions of the encounter and what they learned and shared about themselves. Class members should endeavor to talk with people of various socio-economic and ethnic groups. Each week two class members will discuss their experience of a meeting with a person they did not know. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Buscaglia's book, Love, What Life is All About is available on Amazon used for $1.63 and up. Coordinators will provide additional resources to enrich the class presentations and discussions.

Coordinators: Sidney Okashige has been a member of LLC for over 10 years and has coordinated 12 courses. Phil Weinstein has been talking constructively with strangers for many years and practices being a fully human being.

Scrabble Social Club

Coordinators: Betty Havrylik, Tracey Zeckhausen

Scrabble meets every week at the Temple during our four regular semesters. All levels are welcome, and game boards are provided. Players are rotated by the coordinators so that you play with different people every week – typically in groups of three, though sometimes four or two. We permit players to use Scrabble dictionaries during the game; we respectfully ask that you only look up a word you have in mind to verify that it is, indeed, a word, and not spend your whole turn poring over the dictionary looking for a better word than the one you already have! You don't need to attend every week, but you do need to register to participate. Please plan to arrive at about 3:00 pm, or a few minutes after. We need the time from 3:00-3:15 to set up the boards and players so that we can start playing right at 3:15. We generally have three to five games in play and there is room for more. Hopefully, you'll become a regular. Betty and Tracey will be on hand for documentation and rule clarification and to create our groups each week, and we shall see if Pete will continue to hold onto his distinction as our Scrabble icon. Then join us afterwards, if you wish, for supper at a Providence restaurant. We have a list of nine restaurants that we rotate through – three general menu restaurants, two pizza places, and Greek, Chinese, Indian, and Thai restaurants. There we can relax and unwind in a convivial group.

Coordinators: Betty Havrylik and Tracey Zeckhausen have coordinated the Scrabble Social Club before.

The Etruscans

Coordinator: Linda Guccione

The Etruscans were the first “superpower” of the Western Mediterranean. Before the Roman Empire, the Etruscan civilization controlled most of the peninsula we now call Italy. They were responsible for teaching the Romans the alphabet and for spreading literacy throughout the Italian peninsula. A vanished culture, their achievements set the stage not only for the development of ancient Roman art and culture but for the Italian Renaissance as well. Often labeled mysterious, as no literature and histories remain, we continue to learn about them through their archaeological sites and tombs. This course will investigate and explore the current thinking about this sophisticated and rich culture, looking at their origins, and all facets of their society, their art, and their interactions with other cultures, notably, Greek and Roman.

Format: Each participant is requested to present and lead a one-hour discussion, choosing from a coordinator supplied list of topics. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: There is no textbook, but participants may be asked to read PDF documents supplied by the coordinator and/or watch videos specified by the coordinator. The library system has many books on the topic plus the coordinator can help with research sources: websites, museums, etc. No expenses are anticipated.

Coordinator: Linda Guccione has coordinated courses on Italian art and is a long-time independent student of Italian painting, ceramics, and the Etruscans. Her many years of travel in Italy and two years living in Ferrara, have given her the opportunity of seeing many Etruscan archeological sites and museums.

How Safe is Our Safety Net?

Coordinators: Gene Mihaly, Carolyn Connors Roberts, Norma Rossi Mead

Those of us growing up in the US following the Greatest Generation had a sense of security because governmental programs promised a secure life, even into retirement. We paid into Social Security, enjoyed the benefits of high-quality public education, and felt confident that good health care was readily available. But we’ve experienced changes – and this course looks at the current quality of our social programs, educational opportunities, and health care coverage to consider how we’re doing now compared to other industrialized nations. We invite you to join us to explore what’s working and what needs improvement. Being aware is the first step!

Format: Our first class will include an overview to spark ideas on research possibilities and topics. Participants will choose a topic from the following areas for their presentations: public education, healthcare, retirement, and care of the disabled. Presentations will examine what the US is providing in comparison to another country or countries of choice. Factors can include government programs, cultural norms and expectations, and quality of services. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Research is available through online sources and local libraries. No expenses expected.

Coordinators: Eugene Mihaly is a former university professor and business executive who has coordinated many LLC courses. Carolyn Connors Roberts is CEO Emerita and former President & CEO of Copley Health Systems, Inc. She’s also held executive positions with other organizations and served on the boards of the American Hospital Association and the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations. Norma Rossi Mead was head of marketing and public relations for a health care system, community college, and corporate and nonprofit organizations. She is currently working with LLC’s tutoring program at Veazie Street School in Providence.

Hola! A Spanish Conversation Course

Coordinator: Bob Trudeau

The Spanish Conversation course is very informal: we chat about whatever topics come along – avoiding religion and politics. The coordinator will lead the conversation, with stops for grammar or vocabulary questions, as needed. If you have at least a little fluency this course will improve your Spanish. We also welcome participants who only want to listen and would rather not speak, at least at first... The coordinator promises a relaxed, pleasant, and informative few hours of practicing Spanish.

Format: There are no formal assignments, but the coordinator may ask you to prepare a short (one minute or less) topic to get a conversation started. Class members will participate whenever they wish during every session. I may ask participants questions about themselves, to get conversations started. The meetings are very informal, so people can speak, ask each other questions, etc., all designed to increase fluency.

Resources/Expenses: No expenses anticipated. No text required, but participants can explore the Internet for any number of places to learn Spanish and may share what they find with the group.

Coordinator: Bob Trudeau is a former Peace Corps Volunteer who has lived in Latin America for about five years and is fluent in Spanish. He is also a former Spanish teacher, and as a native English speaker he brings insights into specific issues that affect Anglophones who are learning Spanish. He has been leading Spanish conversation chat classes like this one for two years and is happy to share his expertise with you.

Hot Topics

Coordinators: Hugh Campbell, Lee Golden

Do you enjoy talking with others about news of the day, hearing what they think is important, and why? If so, you'll enjoy Hot Topics. We expect probing and exciting sessions that look at current items in the news. Members of the class take turns selecting a hot topic of the week – one that will stir discussion – and presenting key material to the class. The person presenting the topic gets things rolling with a few questions to stimulate discussion. Don't be surprised if at times the discussions become intense and controversial. Class members should plan to read the Providence Journal and either The New York Times or The Wall Street Journal – or both – along with other news sources they might want to look into. Any medium will do, paper or electronic, if the topics are timely, and hot.

Format: Each week one member of the group will choose one article on a current hot topic. After briefly presenting it to the group, they will pose the questions and lead the discussion. The coordinators will act as moderators of the session and help ensure that all viewpoints are heard. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Participants will need access to Internet and will share articles drawn from newspapers, journals, magazines, and/or news releases with the group by email. No expenses are anticipated.

Coordinators: Hugh Campbell and Lee Golden have successfully coordinated this very popular course in past sessions.

REGISTRATION POLICY

1. Lifelong Learning Collaborative (LLC) classes are filled on a “first come/first served” basis up to the enrollment limit. Enrollment limits will include coordinators. No exceptions will be made to the enrollment limits.
2. No registration is accepted until payment is received.
3. Date/time of registration will be determined by the postmark of registrations sent in by mail.

5. A waiting list of up to four people will be formed after a class is full. People will be offered the opportunity of registering for an alternative course in lieu of remaining on the waiting list. When a waiting list is full, applicants turned away from a course will be encouraged to register for another course.

7. The registrar will send, on a daily basis, by email or USPS (for members without email) acknowledgment of registration.

1914: How the World Went to War

Coordinators: Rick Keogh, Martin Saltzman

Today as the world edges towards global conflict we remember 1914, a time when the world accidentally headed toward war. In June 1914 Europe was at peace; but less than one month later the calm was replaced with chaos. One of the great mysteries of history is how Europe's great powers could have stumbled into World War I. The ensuing war destroyed the German, Russian, Austrian and Ottoman empires. Join us as we learn how ineptness, incompetence and misunderstanding on all sides led to the twentieth century's first great social disaster.

Format: Class members will be expected to provide a 10–20-minute presentation, which may utilize a combination of YouTube videos or slides, followed by class discussion. Distribution of questions for class discussion prior to each class will be encouraged. This is a Zoom video conferencing class (see box on page 2 for more information).

Resources/Expenses: Christopher Clark's The Sleepwalkers: How Europe Went to War in 1914, HarperCollins, 2013, is available from Amazon used for $7.25 and up as well as book vendors like Thrift Books and Abe Books and the RI public library system. An additional bibliography and other pertinent films, documentaries and resources will be emailed to the class.

Coordinators: Rick Keogh, a retired college librarian, holds undergraduate and graduate degrees in history and library science. He has coordinated previous LLC history and film classes. Marty Saltzman is a retired Providence College professor.

Writing a Memoir

Coordinators: Lorraine Kaul, Ruth Mills

Have you always wanted to write your life's story but never seem to get started? This class is devoted to encouraging you to take those steps. You will have an opportunity to share your stories with your fellow writers. Classmates will provide encouragement but not criticism. Writing a memoir provides a way to save your family stories for those who will someday be grateful that you did. Sharing these stories can help us connect with others who have similar experiences. Finally, memoir writing may have a therapeutic effect as you revisit painful or complicated events from your past.

Format: Members are expected to participate in writing and sharing approximately 1,500 words about every other week. Optional writing prompts will be available to those who want them.

Resources/Expenses: None.

Coordinators: Lorraine Kaul has been the owner of a consultation company and has authored several wellness articles and a poetry book. Lorraine has attended two of the LLC Memoir classes and describes the class as fun and an excellent way to revisit treasured and unforgettable memories. Ruth Mills has taught English at the high school level and has participated in several writing classes at LLC. This is her second time co-coordinating the Memoir Writing class.

As You Like It: Design and Deliver Your Own LLC Course

Coordinators: Catherine Hurst, Linda Shamoon

NOTE: This course is only for LLC members who are thinking about coordinating a course in the summer of 2023 or beyond. It is not intended for those who are planning to coordinate a spring 2023 course.

Have you thought about an idea for an LLC course that you might like to lead (or co-lead)? Or maybe you want to rethink/reorganize/reposition a course you've coordinated previously. Perhaps you like the idea of coordinating a course but don't have a topic in mind. This free, no-obligation, workshop-style course is designed for any LLC member who would like some help/guidance in developing an idea into a full course plan. You'll have the opportunity to explore ideas for a course or to get feedback on a course you already have in mind, as well as to look at techniques for developing that idea into a course of from 5-10 weeks in length. Along the way we will discuss different ways to run a class; interesting class activities; how to include readings, guest speakers, and field trips; and other possibilities for course development.

Format: There will be a mixture of small group discussion, guest speakers, hands-on work sessions, and individual feedback sessions. No formal presentations will be required, but we will ask you to prepare a written assignment ahead of each class, for example: a draft of your course description, course calendar, course format, etc. Each week we will ask you to share your drafts for feedback from the coordinators and the class. Two class meetings will be devoted to individual feedback sessions. Preparing written assignments, sharing the material, and receiving feedback will be a part of every class.

Resources/Expenses: No text, no expenses.

Coordinators: Catherine Hurst has coordinated ten LLC courses in a variety of content areas and has served on the LLC Curriculum Committee for the past seven years. Linda Shamoon has co-coordinated over twenty courses, including numerous iterations of the popular Concerts and Conversations course, and currently heads the LLC Technology Committee. Both Linda and Cathy have led many LLC Coordinator Orientations and Syllabus Workshops.
